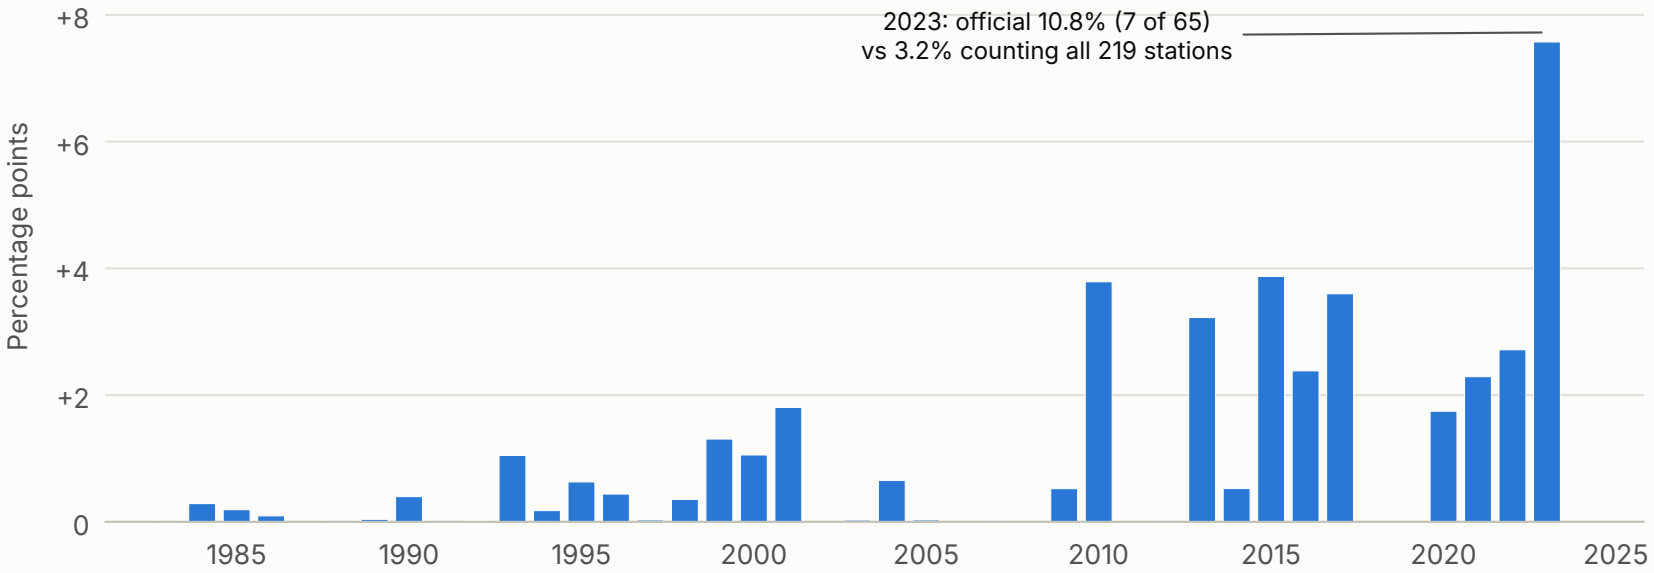
Leaving out incomplete days pushes the figure up

Points added to the official 'snow falling' percentage on Christmas Day by excluding stations coded 9, compared with counting them as snow-free. Every year with code 9 in the data (1982–2025).



Met Office NCIC: code 9 is given only when no snow is reported; snow in any hour overrides it. So excluded stations are snow-free in the hours they did observe. The true figure most plausibly lies between the two values. Zero in years with no snow anywhere.

Data: Met Office MIDAS Open, UK daily weather observations (v202607), via CEDA. Open Government Licence.